NICOLAS BAUDIN TRAVEL GRANT INFORMATION

2024 GUIDE FOR STUDENTS

Program Overview

The Embassy of France in Australia supports student mobility from Australia to France through the Nicolas Baudin Travel Grant, named for the French explorer and botanist who in 1802, at the same time as Matthew Flinders, charted the coast of New Holland (Australia).

This grant program was designed in 2017 to encourage Australian students to discover the French university system, and offers a once in a lifetime opportunity for students to pursue their dreams and study abroad. Laureates find opportunities to strengthen their language abilities, educational knowledge, and gain professional experience in France through the program, regardless of their stream.

The Travel Grant covers the cost of a return flight ticket between Australia and France (up to the value of €1450, or AUD$2500). As recipients of a French government grant, the Laureates are also exempt from paying the application fees (99€) at the French Consulate associated with their student visa.

Australian students can go to France in three different streams:

1. The Internship Stream, for students enrolled at an Australian university seeking to undertake a research internship in a French laboratory in collaboration with a French company in the framework of the Internships in France Initiative.
2. The Exchange Stream, for students enrolled at an Australian university taking part in an exchange program / study abroad at a French establishment.
3. The Full Degree Stream, for students from Australia who are pursuing a degree at a French university, from first year undergraduate to Masters degrees, including double degrees jointly offered by a French and an Australian university.

This guide covers the general eligibility and application process for these streams.

Please read this guide carefully if you want to apply for the grant, and consult the FAQs here for any questions.

If you have more specific questions, please contact us on education.canberra-amba@diplomatie.gouv.fr
